Smith Lists Klan Interest Aroused in And Anti-Saloon League as Foes Hoover's Speech On Friday Night

Tells Baltimore Audience They Are Working With Republican Party to Defeat Him—No Church Ever Made Eighteenth Amendment an Act of Faith.

Governor Smith's train en route to New York, Oct. 30 (P).—Homebound after a flying campaign visit to Maryland, Governor Smith was on record today with the blunt charge that the Anti-Saloon League and the Ku Klux Klan were forces working hand in hand with the Republican party to bring about his defeat.

Addressing one of the most demonstrative and colorful audiences of his presidential drive in the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore last night the Democratic presidential nominee vigorously assailed the league and the Klan and contended that Republican leaders, including "Herbert Hoover, were 'wiggling and wobbling' on the question of prohibition because their party was 'held right down to earth by the power and the influences of the forces of intolerance.'

Speaking in the same building where Woodrow Wilson was nominated 16 years ago and with the war president's widow on the platform, the governor devoted a large part of his speech to the argument that the Republican party stood for "the old order of things" and standpatism, as opposed to the Democratic stand for "progressive" treatment of the big questions facing the country. Foreign policy, water power, the tariff, government reorganization—all were dealt with in detail before prohibition and intolerance were reached.

Anti-Saloon League and Religion. The Anti-Saloon League, the nominee charged, had flooded the country with propaganda, "in an effort to make God-fearing men and women believe that the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act are dogmas of religion."

"No church that I ever heard of, no church that you ever heard of," the governor asserted amid long applause, "attempted to make the Eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act an act of faith."

"What is it?" he continued. "It is nothing more or less than legislation passed in the stress of war and lobbied through the congress by the browbeating methods of the Anti-Saloon League."

The governor contended that every religion taught the value of sobriety and temperance, as well as the danger of intolerance, and declared that he must not escape the thought that it must be "quite a shock to the American people to have the moral power of the church used to impress men and women with the idea that in talking against the Eighteenth Amendment or Volstead act they are against every church, or that they have sinned against God himself."

Claims Norris Was Threatened. Senator Norris, Republican independent of Nebraska, who in a speech Saturday night announced his support of Governor Smith, was said by the nominee to have received a "cold-blooded threat" from the Anti-Saloon League declaring it would withdraw its support of the Nebraska if he made that speech.

"That means," the governor said amid cheers, "that all of Senator Norris' great work in the senate, all the efforts that he put into the advancement of progressive legislation, all that he did for men, women and children throughout the country falls to the ground and crumbles in to dust in the eyes of the Anti-Saloon League just as soon as he runs counter to their ideas and just as soon as he gets out of line and out of tune with their bigotry and intolerance."

Says Klan is Un-American. Referring to "that gallant band of patriots known as the Ku Klux Klan," the governor said: "I never heard the words without having the thought flashed across my mind, what must the American people think after the countless billions of dollars they have poured into the cost of public education to see reared up in a country like ours a hundred per cent American without the slightest notion of American ideals or American principles."

The nominee brought applause when he said he would "sooner go down to ignominious defeat than to be elected to any office in this country, if to accomplish it I had to have the support of any group with such perverted ideas of Americanism."

Ottenger Coming Here Saturday Attorney General Albert Ottenger, the Republican candidate for governor, will speak at a big Republican mass meeting and rally in Reade's Kingston Theatre on Wall street on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. With Mr. Ottenger will be ex-Congressman William S. Bennett of New York, who will also speak.

The attorney general is known as an eloquent speaker and will speak on the issues of the campaign. It is expected that there will be a large attendance not only from Kingston but from the surrounding territory. In addition to the addresses there will be a motion picture shown, "Herbert Hoover, Master of Emergencies."

Wicks and Davis Are Real Representatives

Wicks a Leader In State Senate

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, the Republican candidate to succeed himself in the senate, is one of the younger business men of Kingston, who is widely and favorably known. Senator Wicks is a native of New York city, where he was born December 24, 1887. Ten years later his parents moved on a farm in the town of Olive, Ulster county, where they resided for three years, then returning to New York.

Senator Wicks was educated in the public schools of Olive and New York city and after leaving high school entered the employ of his uncle, a manufacturer of pianos, with the intention of learning the business. Indoor work, however, did not agree with his health and he obtained work with the New York Board of Water Supply.

Studied Engineering. After six months at Valhalla he was transferred to the reservoir department and for eleven years continued in the engineering department of the New York city water supply. During this period he took up a course of special study in engineering, which resulted in his being appointed an engineer in the construction of the Schoharie tunnel under the East River from 59th street to Long Island City. After working for seven months, much of the time under air pressure in the tunnel, Mr. Wicks found that his health was being impaired and resigned.

Entered Laundry Business. Being familiar with Ulster county from his residence here in boyhood, Mr. Wicks had spent his holidays here and naturally his thoughts turned to Kingston when seeking a business to enter. He purchased Thomson's Laundry in 1915 and has owned and operated it ever since. The volume of business done in the laundry increased under his ownership and management more than tenfold and Mr. Wicks has refused offers to sell at a price more than ten times the price he paid for the property.

Interested in Public Affairs. During his residence in Kingston, Senator Wicks has been actively interested in public affairs. He has served as an officer of the Chamber of Commerce, a director in the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation which owns the Governor Clinton Hotel, a member and director of the Kingston Rotary Club, a member of the Masonic bodies in Kingston, a member of the Kingston Club, the Tawakill Club, the Roundout Yacht Club, the J. O. U. A. M., the Hudson Valley Laundry Owners' Association and the Fair Street Reformed Church, of the consistory of which he was for six years a member.

Outstanding Local Legislation. Senator Wicks has made a remarkable record for a first term man, his ability having been almost immediately recognized in the senate. Two outstanding pieces of legislation of local interest for which he is responsible are the law protecting property owners whose holdings are to be taken for the extension of the New York city water works and the law providing for the erection of the state museum on the Senate House grounds in Kingston.

Of general interest was the bill he introduced to protect the rights of dairymen in connection with the cleaning up of tuberculosis cattle. Formerly the compensation was limited to a sum that was preposterously inadequate for blooded cattle. Senator Wicks introduced a bill raising the maximum compensation to a reasonable sum. The bill was not passed, but its provisions were lifted bodily and inserted in the Department of Farms and Markets bill, which was passed and became law.

HENRY "BLUE" THOMAS HELD ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY. Henry Thomas, a negro who is known by the nickname of "Blue," was arrested on Monday by Sergeant Simpson on a warrant sworn out by Charles Dasher, charging "Blue" with robbery in the second degree. According to the information sworn to by Dasher when obtaining the warrant, Thomas, with several others, attacked him on August 21, knocking him down, and then "Blue" went through his pockets and helped himself to a revolver valued at $25. This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned.

TWO SMALLPOX CASES REPORTED AT JAMESTOWN. Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 30 (P).—Two cases of smallpox and two of infantile paralysis, reported last night, caused Dr. William M. Hill, city health officer, to begin an investigation today to determine whether other cases of smallpox may develop. Two smallpox victims, Arthur Denton, garage owner, and his wife, live in Boalswood, a suburb. The infantile paralysis cases are a baby of two and a child of five.

Millard Davis For Assemblyman

Millard Davis, the Republican candidate for member of assembly, is widely and favorably known to the farmers, fruit growers and dairymen of Ulster county through his activities as a member of the Ulster County Farm Bureau and the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, which he helped to organize. He is also well known in Kingston through his activities as a member of the state assembly.

Mr. Davis is a son of Millard H. Davis and was born in the town of Olive, August 3, 1883. He attended the district school and later went to Hunter, Greene county, where he attended the Hunter High School. On leaving the latter school he became a teacher and for one year taught the district school at Woodstock.

With Big Law Firm. When 15 years old, Mr. Davis entered the New York Law School, from which he was graduated in 1903, and in the following year, at the age of 21 years, was admitted to the bar. He worked in several New York city law offices for a time and then went to St. Louis, where he practiced for a short time, later going to Indian Territory, where he became seriously ill of typhoid, he returned to New York city. There he entered the employ of Cravath & Henderson, one of the largest law firms in New York, and for ten years was managing clerk of the firm.

Became a Practical Farmer. While practicing law in New York city, Mr. Davis joined the Ulster County Farm Bureau, which had just been organized, and his practical interest in farming led him to purchase a farm near Kerhonkson, to which he moved after leaving Cravath & Henderson, and on which he has since resided. For the first two years of his farming life, Mr. Davis did not leave the farm for a single day, and by hard work he has made his farm one of the most productive in that section of the Rondout valley.

Helped to Organize Dairymen. Realizing the benefits to producer and consumer of cooperative agricultural organization, Mr. Davis helped to organize the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association of Ulster county and was one of the most active workers in the campaign by which funds were raised to establish the Accord cooperative plant, which since has been taken over by the Dairymen's League and is conducted with satisfaction to producers and consumers.

Mr. Davis's only memberships are in the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, and the Ulster County Farm Bureau, in which he has rendered valuable service as an officer and member of the executive committee. He has always been an active Republican and at different times has represented his district as a delegate to the Republican county conventions.

Record Known to Everyone. It is expected that Mr. Davis will be returned to the assembly in November by the largest majority ever given a candidate for this office. His record while assemblyman is known to every resident of Ulster county and is such that there is no question but that he will again represent Ulster county in the state assembly for the ensuing two years.

Crawford Held as Drunken Driver

Kyerlike Man Arrested Following Collision on Broadway Between His Car and That of Harold Johnson—Other Cases in Police Court.

Nathan Crawford of Kyerlike was arrested Monday by Officer Harnen who charged Crawford with operating an automobile while intoxicated on Broadway, near Dederick street. Crawford's Maxwell touring car crashed into the Ford coupe of Harold Johnson of 185 O'Neil street, badly wrecking it. Fortunately Johnson and Nathan Palist, who was riding with him, were uninjured. Mr. Johnson is employed in the parcel post delivery department of the local post office.

This morning in police court at Crawford's request the hearing was adjourned until Monday and bail fixed at $300. Crawford said he desired to see a lawyer before having a hearing.

James Morris, who said he lived in Bridgeport, Conn., and who walks with the aid of a crutch, was picked up intoxicated on Murray street on Monday by Officer Urban Healer. This morning James was sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

Steve Jackson of Red Hook and Gas Gordon of 43 Murray street, both negroes, were arrested Monday by Louis Simon, who charged them with disorderly conduct in refusing to pay their taxi bill which amounted to $3. This morning the negroes paid the taxi bill and they were discharged.

Hallowe'en Plea To Boys and Girls

Boys and girls of the city of Kingston:

Do you think you treat the storekeeper fairly on Hallowe'en by tapping his windows? You possibly do not think how much trouble, expense, and work you cause the next day. Many of our windows never are clean after you soap them as the soap gets into the pores of the glass. Mothers and fathers will you ask your children to refrain from doing this, this year? The merchants will thank you for it. We want all the boys and girls to have a good time Hallowe'en, and the police will not interfere with your pleasure and fun if done in the right way.

In a great many cities, the soaping of windows is prohibited by law, but Kingston does not need this law if the boys and girls will do their part.

Boy Scouts—we ask you to help make this Hallowe'en free from soaping windows.

UPTOWN BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Now boys and girls and fathers and mothers, the merchants have made a request. They have been put to considerable trouble each Hallowe'en and have not kicked about it much either. If we all realize the trouble they have to go to to remove soap which has dried on the windows we would stop the practice.

It is a violation of the law anyway. You did not know this of course. It is disorderly conduct and punishable by a fine not exceeding $50 and six months in the county jail. Rather a serious thing when one thinks about it, isn't it?

Now, I hope that not a single window will be marked this year. Everybody wants to comply with a reasonable request and this is a reasonable one I am sure. There will be plenty of policemen about, of course, but they will have their hands full looking after your safety. So modify your demonstrations this Hallowe'en to simple fun and amusement without damage to other people's property. I am sure if you think about this you will not do anything to make people uncomfortable. If you do something and are caught you will have no one to blame but yourself.

J. ALLAN WOOD, Chief of Police.

HIGH FALLS MEN GIVE BOND FOR GRAND JURY

Samuel Yellem, reputed proprietor of an alleged disorderly house at High Falls, raided by State Troopers on Sunday night, and Jack Goldstein, who it is said was connected with the place and arrested with Yellem, were taken before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church on Monday afternoon. They each waived examination and were held to await the action of the grand jury. Yellem was released on giving a bond in $2,000 and Goldstein gave a bond in $1,000. Adele Smith of New York and Betty Jones of Scranton, Pa., inmates of the house, demanded a jury trial and were remanded to jail to await a hearing to be held later.

"Since the girls simply will make up," explained Miss Nellie Ryan, principal of the north side continuation schools, "we have decided to try to initiate them in the correct and artistic application of make-up." Use of the lipstick was discouraged, but rouge is sanctioned.

Zeppelin Far Out To Sea Exact Position Not Clear

Best Information Available Places Dirigible 600 Miles Somewhere East or Northeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland—Direct Word That Everything Aboard Her Was "O. K."—Expected To Arrive Wednesday Afternoon.

Graf Zeppelin's Stowaway Known As "Gate Crasher"

New York, Oct. 30 (P).—The Graf Zeppelin's stowaway, a 19 year old St. Louis boy who looks younger than his years, has been "crashing gates" the past two years from New York to Nome, Alaska.

His name is Clarence Terhune, but fellow caddies at the Rye, N. Y., country club called him "St. Louis." His parents are dead, his father, Charles Terhune, a St. Louis barber, having killed his wife and himself last July.

Clarence was born in St. Louis and attended school there until two years ago, his brother-in-law, George M. Hall, revealed. His first wanderings carried him on a hitch-hiking trip from St. Louis to the Pacific coast, from which he returned to crash the gate at the Dempsey-Turner fight at Soldier Field, Chicago.

Then followed more wanderings about the country, caddying when the need for money arose. He was a stowaway on a government cruiser bound for Nome, Alaska. When his mother was killed after his trip to Alaska he returned to St. Louis, where he remained ten days and again vanished.

He appeared at the Rye Country Club three months ago and secured a job as caddy in a room at the home of Mrs. John C. Donnelly in Rye.

Paul Pellacore, the professional at the Country Club, said Terhune was a quiet chap who usually appeared at the links in the morning with a bag of cakes which were his breakfast and lunch. He told Pellacore a few days ago that he had saved $50 and was "going away from here" because he didn't like the work.

He took his Saturday morning at the rooming house, brushed his hair and walked out, telling Mrs. Donnelly he would be back "after a while." He had confided to Mrs. Donnelly's son, however, that he was going on a "long journey." He had also told the boy that he would have liked to have been on the Zeppelin on his first crossing.

His only possession, a knapsack containing a few pieces of clothing and trophies he had picked up on his wanderings, Clarence left at Mrs. Donnelly's. They'll be waiting if he ever goes back to claim them.

"I'm going to keep these things until the boy comes back and tells me all about his trip," she said.

Two Children Die, Trapped by Flames

Syracuse, Oct. 30 (P).—Two children were asphyxiated this morning when they were trapped by flames in their home. Their parents, both of whom work, had left the house. Francis McAllister, 2½, and Lillian, 1, his sister, were the victims. District Chief Frank M. Savage fought his way through smoke and flames to a room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McAllister, where he found the two children, apparently overcome by smoke.

He carried the children to the street. They were taken to a hospital where physicians pronounced them dead. Ethel McAllister, one year old, a third child, had been left with a neighbor before the parents left for work. Joseph Raymond, another tenant of the house, who was at home ill, carried his four children to safety.

Woodstockers On A World Cruise

Eleanor Blomshield Writes of Strange Sights—How Cannibals, Sinking Island and Other "Curious Things."

(By F. G. Clough.)

A tale of world travel, with a rapid account of Japan, Honolulu, the Fiji Islands, New Zealand, Australia and Shanghai, and with mention of the smallest kingdom in the world, cannibals who eat white men, a young queen over six feet tall, and sharks and knives, is contained in an interesting letter sent from Teatua, China, by Eleanor Blomshield of Woodstock, to the writer.

Mrs. Blomshield (nee Eleanor Blomfield) left Woodstock several months ago for a cruise around the world; she was accompanied by her husband, John Blomshield, artist and writer. While Mrs. Blomshield disclaims any ability at narrative, her letter is colored by a vivid and personal reaction to travel, and her account is both graphic and interesting. She has the uncommon faculty of making the reader see with her the unusual things, and her letter will be of special interest both to her friends and to other newspaper readers. The letter, which was mailed September 30, follows:

"Here we are in the Yellow Sea with the Yellow Cathay to the left. We are awfully excited about going to China. We do not know where this boat can land, nor how we get to Peking—the railways have been exploded—it is all a grand gamble and maybe we will have to join a China army.

"We spent over a month in Japan, and the people! Well we just love them. Never have we had such a good time—excellent hotels—the best food in the world and all kinds of entertainment—John has a Japanese valet now whom we will take to Woodstock. He took us to native places that were unusually interesting.

Saw a Real Cannibal

"Our first stop was beautiful Honolulu. Peter Whitehead had given us introductions there so we had a gay time. Then six weeks in the beautiful Fiji Islands with their huge, beautifully built cannibals men with their hair standing up all over their heads. A man up the street had been arrested for eating a white person. We saw the fire-walkers—stones heated in a huge cauldron then these wild men in fantastic dresses danced on the stones without getting burned. Then great bales of green branches were put on and immediately burned up—no one knew how it was done.

"We took a trip to the Tongan and Samoan Islands—the first are governed by a six-foot-two-inch black queen of twenty-five years; it is the smallest kingdom in the world. One of her islands is a volcano and every now and then it spouts beneath the sea for a few years—then rises again! Then back to Fiji where we saw marvelous barbaric dances and heard the natives sing; they have the most gorgeous organ-like bass voices.

"On to New Zealand where we saw the Maori natives and the interesting thermal springs which the people use to cook in, wash in and heat with.

Native Slashed White Man's Face

"Australia was too cold, so we took the Tanga Maru, a Japanese boat and a most excellent one—for Manila—sixteen days. One day we saw sharks chasing a whale which was very exciting; another day we stopped at Thursday Island—a wee isolated place where the only occupation is gathering the shells that make our pearl buttons. Then a stop at Davao—the south point in the Philippine Islands. Here our brains most melted with the heat. Then Manila—even Britishers say it is a great credit to America. Each day's paper told of killings and the day we left I saw a native slash a white man's face! It was awful.

"Our next boat stopped in Hongkong, which belongs to the British, then at Shanghai which is interesting. There I most broke my back and for two weeks could not move. Then beautiful, wonderful Japan! And now we're headed for China.

"Each day since leaving home I have thought of my promise to you and have made many attempts to write, but I declare I am most awfully stupid at writing as you can tell by this letter.

"We got terribly homesick for Woodstock and have twice almost turned around to go back; we have had no mail from Woodstock yet because it's waiting in Singapore. We expected to get there before this but found Japan too fascinating to leave sooner."

Wage Increase On Western Roads

Washington, Oct. 29 (AP).—The emergency board appointed by President Coolidge to investigate the wage dispute on western railroads has recommended a 6 1/2 per cent increase in wages without change of rules, or alternatively, a 7 1/2 per cent increase if certain rules are eliminated.

Further, the arbitration board proposed that whichever alternative the railroads and train service unions accepted should be put into effect immediately, and the terms made to apply as of May 1, 1929, the date on which the controversy developed.

The solution of the controversy suggested dealt with the discussion of complicated rules governing the application of wage scales hitherto agreed upon between the brotherhoods and the railroads. These have now blocked a settlement of the controversy. A number of these rules, upheld by the brotherhoods, have been viewed by railroad executives as unnecessarily hampering the efficiency of railroad service.

Specifically, the board mentioned the elimination of the present rule affecting the operation of trains with double-header engines, and the elimination of the present rule limiting the tonnage of freight on a single train.

Under the railroad labor board procedure, the arbitration report made to President Coolidge must be considered by both the carriers and brotherhoods during a period of 30 days. Neither side may legally produce a situation resulting in suspension of operations during that period. In case they accept the findings, differences will be completely settled.

Zeppelin Far Out to Sea

that she would be hoisted in her hangar near Lake Constance some time tomorrow afternoon. The gale at times approaches hurricane force and was accompanied by rain squalls. Weather forecasts indicated that there was every chance that the rough weather would continue throughout the ocean voyage of some 3,000 miles. Radio advice from ships to London stated that it was very rough in the eastern Atlantic. The wind reached a velocity of about 100 miles an hour off the French and Irish coasts. The British meteorological department announced that there was a deep depression moving southward from Iceland.

Carries 62 Persons.
The airship carried 62 persons, including a stewardess discovered when she was putting out to sea. There was a crew of 37. Three United States naval officers were aboard as observers. Eleven passengers were making their first transatlantic flight. The 20 other passengers were completing the round trip journey from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst. One of the new passengers was a woman, Mrs. Clare Adams of Tannersville, Pa.

The stowaway, Clarence Terhune, 19 year old caddy of the Rye Country Club, eluded hundreds of eyes watchful for just such an attempt, and gained the distinction of being the first person to steal a ride on a transatlantic flight.

Average Speed of 65 Miles.
When the airship left the coast of the United States at Chatham, Mass., on Cape Cod, at 6:15 a. m. Monday, she had covered about 300 miles since leaving Lakehurst, N. J., at 1:54 a. m., giving her an average speed of 65 miles an hour. She had followed a route through the moonlit night over New York city and Long Island and then over Block Island, R. I., and across the Elizabeth Islands of Massachusetts.

The steam trawler Widgeon sighted the dirigible 75 miles north-east of Chatham at 7:15 a. m. She was flying low at an estimated speed of 75 knots. The winds were favorable at that time and although the sky was overcast there were no evidences of any storm.

At 10:15 a. m., word came from the steamship Laconia that the dirigible had just passed over her at a point 90 miles southwest of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia.

At 2 p. m., the air liner reported to Germany that her position was latitude 43 north, longitude 58 west. The flying speed was given at 160 kilometers (about 100 miles) an hour and the course southeast. A tail wind was whisking her along at a much greater speed than she could have made in still air. The position given was between 500 and 600 miles from Chatham and along the lane used by steamships to Europe.

Flying Conditions Bad.
Incomplete reports reaching the United States weather bureau indicated that flying conditions rapidly were becoming bad. Static interference with radio reception and there were no reports for a time.

Then from three points in Newfoundland came unconfirmed reports of the sighting of a passing aircraft but only at Northern Bight, Trinity Bay, was this craft identified as Graf Zeppelin. This report gave her passing at 5:35 p. m. A report from the airship, however, at 10 p. m. (5 p. m. E. S. T.) indicated that when she was supposed to have been over New Zealand she was far to the south along the steamship lane.

The North American Continent lost contact with the air liner at 5:30 p. m. when the radio station at Canso, Nova Scotia, reported that although it had picked up the Zeppelin for a moment no information was obtained because of bad atmospheric conditions.

More Lectures On Child Psychology

"Adults often have difficulty guiding young children," said Dr. Max Wilker in the lecture "New Ways of Guiding Children" because they have learned some very simple and they have forgotten that the learning of such acts are complex. Or, they have never studied how learning takes place. The learning of an act is very subtle and complex for it depends upon practice, not merely of the desirable outward muscular part of the act, but upon practice of the desirable thinking and feeling aspects as well. What a child is practicing at any given moment depends largely upon what he is thinking and how he is feeling at the time he is performing the act.

The discussion of suitable procedures in guiding young children will be continued in a second series of lectures to be given by Dr. Wilker, educational psychologist at the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell University, on November 14, 15 and 16 at the Court House. The work is carried on under the auspices of the Ulster County Home Bureau and cooperating agencies interested in the behavior of young children.

New Form of Violin Body

Instead of being curved, the body of a violin constructed by a Chicago maker is angular, the form enabling the player to reach farther on the strings although his finger may be short, and making the instrument easier to hold under the chin, says Popular Science Magazine. At the same time, an improvement in tone is claimed for this pattern.

WED HER FOR HER MONEY SHE SEEKS ANNUITY

Selena L. Freer, Kingston, asked Justice Morschauer for an annulment of her marriage to George A. Freer, because her husband married her for her money and never really loved her. The court reserved decision to study the testimony and the law on the subject, says the Poughkeepsie Evening Star.

This was a continuation of a hearing opened Saturday. Mrs. Freer is the only witness, and she testifies that when George was courting her he protested his ardent love for her. After the marriage it was different. "He told me after we were married, that he just married me for my money," said Mrs. Freer. "He said he lied to me when he told me before the marriage that he loved me, because he just married me for my money. Then I left him." This was in 1921.

Benjamin H. Brevoort appears for Mrs. Freer, while Mr. Freer did not appear, nor was he represented by an attorney.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

THE FUR ENSEMBLE MAKES ITS BOW TO SOCIETY

New York—The majority of women give a rousing welcome to the fur set. It presents endless and fascinating possibilities, ranging from the height of extravagance to the opposite extreme, since obviously it is quite possible to use one's fur coat, when it may no longer serve as a coat.

The best establishments are featuring fur sets. Because of their charm and chic, fur hats and muffs of diverse shapes are being received in the best social circles. While the animal scarf remains in its unchallenged position "sets" do not involve them as often as they do the cravat type, fashioned of flat fur and completed by a novelty muff and a mere skull cap of fur.

This development presents one of

Bake your next cake, or your next batch of biscuits, with Pillsbury's Best Flour. Notice how much better they taste. You'll find a delicate, unmistakably richer flavor—the sort of thing that's a puzzle to women who don't know the secret.

Pillsbury's Best Flour is milled from certain carefully selected, full-flavored types of wheat. It makes food taste better. You'll notice the improvement most in cakes and biscuits, because they are so delicate. But it's also true of bread and pastry—Pillsbury's Best gives better flavor to everything you bake!

Jimmie Caruso's Orchestra To Play At Victory Ball

JIMMIE CARUSO.

Jimmie Caruso's Society Orchestra of New York, which will be one of the two orchestras at the Victory Ball on November 12, will be the original Caruso unit, under the personal direction of Jimmie Caruso, and not just an orchestra using the laurels of a well-known leader whose personal services are tied up elsewhere.

The Annual Victory Ball of the American Legion, which is held each year to celebrate the anniversary of the armistice, has become noted for its brilliancy, smartness and novelty. It has justly earned the title of Ulster county's pre-eminent social function.

This armistice day celebration, the tenth anniversary of the ending of the World War, and such an auspicious occasion demands a program of more than ordinary merit—something that surpasses anything that Kingston has yet enjoyed in the way of novel entertainment and superb dance music.

Jimmie Caruso's Society Orchestra has played in the most fashionable places of London, Paris, Berlin and Monte Carlo. They have played, and still play, in some of the most exclusive clubs and homes in New York. They are much in demand at Princeton University. The local committee feels that in securing this orchestra they will bring real enjoyment and delight to the many dancers of the county who always attend the Victory Ball.

Jimmie Caruso is a great orchestra leader. He has a wonderful personality, a keen sense of humor and his splendid directorial qualifications inspire his musicians to play with such zest that their music is delightful to listen and dance to. He coaches and rehearses at great length and by his clever touches of novelty and improvisation makes each new dance number an instantaneous hit. The greatest of all dance orchestra leaders, Paul Whiteman, engaged Jimmie Caruso as assistant conductor of the original Whiteman's orchestra some years ago. Since then his standing in modern dance music has been an enviable one.

Erne's Imperial Broadcasting Orchestra, known to all lovers of the dance, will alternate with the New York orchestra in playing dance music from 9:45 p. m. to 2 a. m. Although there will be a splendid five-act entertainment, the committee has insured the happiness of the many dancers.

Argues Against Sunday Movies

An inspiring service was held at Redemptor Lutheran Church Sunday evening when the churches of the district united to hear the Rev. J. H. Ferguson, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, who spoke on "Conserving the Sabbath." Many members from the following churches were present with their families: White Street Baptist, Trinity M. E., Redwood Presbyterian, Congregational and Redemptor.

The speaker emphasized that we are not seeking to legislate the morals or religion of people. We are not trying to restrict the rights of men but to the contrary are fighting to protect the rights of men—those men who must work on Sunday as well as the other days of the week or lose their positions. While a man has the right to attend some amusement place on Sunday, it is not considered to demand that others work for him on that day of rest, especially in view of the fact that there are six days of the week for such amusement. He stated that 55 per cent of the people of America live in communities where there are no Sunday shows.

When a senator asked Dr. Ferguson why Sunday shows should not be permitted, Dr. Ferguson answered him, "If you are going to allow this, where are you going to stop? The senator saw the point and agreed that this entrance must not be permitted. Dr. Ferguson also pointed out that the type of picture shown on Sunday shows and on Saturday afternoon shows is not of the same quality as the picture shown on the regular week-day shows. He stated that the argument that Sunday movies brought business was false. Some people spend their money for movies when they ought to be paying the merchants. The Lord's Day Alliance is not trying to antagonize the picture show business, but rather to make men realize that they need a day of rest. It will not be loss to the movie owners for people who go on Sunday will not attend during the week.

Smith Elected Union Secretary

At a recent meeting of the Local Union, No. 91, Carpet and Linoleum Layers, of the city of Newark, N. J., Harry S. Smith, a former Kingston boy, was elected to the office of secretary by an overwhelming vote. Mr. Smith was chosen for the office in view of the fact that he had a wide acquaintance among the craftsmen of his trade both here and in the Orange. He has supervised many of the large contract jobs in the city and elsewhere, one of the largest being the laying and installation of 4,700 yards of carpet and 2,000 yards of Battisfield Linoleum in the new Stanley Theatre at Journal Square, Jersey City, N. J.

In an interview it was learned that Mr. Smith received his early floor covering instruction in the large department store of Rose-Gorman-Rose of Kingston, where he worked under the able direction of E. J. Koch, who for many years was buyer for the well known firm of Shepherd Knapp and W. & J. Sloane of New York.

The Local Union of Newark has a membership of three hundred members including all of the large department store staff of L. Samberger & Co., Habne & Co., Kresge Department Store, formerly L. S. Plaut & Co., Ludwig Bauman Co., and others.

At a meeting and banquet held by the directors of Local No. 91, Mr. Smith pointed out the advantages of union labor, bringing home the fact that if all skilled labor were union, employers would secure only the best and any mechanic sent on a job would be able to handle same as the job should be handled.

All who know Mr. Smith in New Jersey wish him the best of success in the new field of office and his many friends in and around Kingston will do the same.

Second Monday Club Lecture

There were several new associate members in attendance upon the second of the Monday Club lectures on "Problems of Modern Social and Political Life," which are being given in the chapel of the First Reformed Church on Monday afternoons at 4 o'clock. This week the speaker was Dr. Lyford P. Edwards, professor of social science at St. Stephen's College, and his subject was "The Economic Basis of Modern Civilization."

If any one in the audience was looking for an erudite, didactic, professorial exposition of the rather formidable subject, he or she must have been greatly disappointed. While there could be no slightest doubt that Dr. Edwards knew his subject thoroughly from Alpha to Omega, there also could be no slightest doubt that he himself got a lot of joy out of his work and was able the more convincingly to put across what he had to tell because of his whimsical humor that struck such a happy balance in his thinking and speaking and his simple humanness that made him "just folks" with the rest of the world.

Dr. Edwards assured his audience that the economic basis of modern civilization was essentially the same as the economic basis of any other civilization, the three needs of human beings of something to eat, shelter and clothing. Then he took up the problem of the "surplus" over and above what was needed for food, shelter and clothing, and a consideration of those who secured and kept that surplus until it might by some circumstance be taken away. In its evolution of civilization, the speaker told how England had naturally passed through slavery, then serfdom, into a period of paying wages for service. He thought this condition under which we also work and live would go on unless in the long, eternal process of evolution, some process with less compulsion could be evolved.

Dr. Edwards also showed how the hope of reward or fear of punishment added to or detracted from the efficiency of service, and then made very clear the difference between property (the idea of possession) and wealth (the thing itself). The way in which Dr. Edwards showed that we retain our possessions, not because we can prove any specific right to them, but because the great majority of people are willing we shall retain them, was most interesting, and proved to be one important basis of our modern civilization.

Unfortunately Dr. Edwards missed ferry connections and was a bit late in arriving. But he proved himself a master speaker in that he stopped exactly on time even though he had not finished his lecture, and his stopping was regretted by all. Next Monday, Dr. Edwards will again be the lecturer, his subject then being "The Present Economic Situation in Europe and Our Relationship Thereto."

All bids must be in lump sums only and not a percentage basis.

The bonds will first be offered separately and then in a block.

In the event the aggregate of the bids for the separate bonds exceeds the highest bid, all the bonds will be offered in a block to the highest bidder for the entire amount, but in the event the highest bid for the bonds in block equals or exceeds the aggregate of the amount of bids for the single bonds, the bonds will be struck off to the block bidder.

No bids shall be binding upon the district until the bonds have been offered in block and actually struck off to a purchaser.

Abnormality in Name

The typical singer's nose is said to be wide at the top and broad and muscular in the wings. It has been observed, too, that singers whose noses were, to begin with, rather delicate and slender, acquired in the course of their training broad noses of the sort described. Jenny Lind had a nose that was even up. The nostrils were broad and the ridge though spacious was flat. This formation was said to be especially favorable to a soprano voice.

Napoleon Bonaparte chose men with large noses for responsible stations, because, as it was explained, such noses allowed free and full inhalation, and thereby kept the brain cool and clear. However, among notable men who possessed quite small noses might be mentioned Peter the Great, Thomas Jefferson, Oliver W. Holmes, Robespierre and Thackeray.

Width between the eyes is said to indicate ability in judging distances and conditions. It was especially marked in the face of George Washington, who was an able surveyor and, of course, an excellent judge of conditions.

The most important mineral substances required in food are the salts of iron, iodine, phosphorus, calcium, manganese, potash and soda. Iron is required for the blood. The red coloring matter carries the oxygen all over the body.
